How the Birth of Christ is Celebrated in the Land of Greasers.

NOVENA LASTS NINE DAYS.

Story or Joseph and Mary's Trip to Bethlehem Brought to Mind. Thousands of Dollars Spent on One Posada in Homes of the Wealthy.

CITY OF MEXICO, Dec. 19 .- A Christmas in Mexico is celebrated in a way so entirely different from the same season in the United States that it is difficult to realize that the birth of the same Saviour is being honored.

As the years roll by the festivities ar less strictly observed in a purely religlous way, and with less pomp and ostentation socially. Laws have been passed which forbid the beautiful church processions going beyond the doors. In former days, regiments of soldiers, generals, governors, presidents, and the highest church dignitaries took part, and the entire city suspended all business either to join in the solemn march or reverently view it. As its name implies, the Christmas Novena lasts nine days, and consists principally of posadas; the first held on the evening of December 16, the last on La Noche Buena-this is Christmas eve, or the good night.

Display of Articles for Sale.

The two streets bounding on the north and west the Alameda, with its trees and flowers, fountains and shaded seats are chosen for the display of articles for sale. Loads of evergreens, bright berries, and rich mosses are brought in from the country by Indians, and piled along the western street, with delicate and feathery grasses. Among the greens and browns, Indian women and children cook and eat their peppery dishes while the sales go on. On the north side are the barracas, or stalls, where are sweets of the most alluring colors and designs for all who have the money to buy. These goodles are to be used in the pinatas, which play a more prominent part each year in the posa-das as the outward religious manifestations decline.

Posada Means Inn.

The word posada means inn, and the nine posadas held on the nine eyenings before La Navidad, the Nativity, are in memory of the weary search of Joseph and Mary for a place of rest after their journey to Bethlehem, or Belen. According to these traditions, it was not until the ninth evening that a kindly innkeeper, or posadero, took pity on the expectant mother. Among the tiny figures offered for sale, the good posadero, is well represented, though Joseph and Mary are prominent. While Mary on her way to Bethlehem is always on mule-back, Joseph sometimes is seen to walk and lead the animal, an angel following; or the angel leads, while Joseph follows with a tiny cudgel in his hands. Little groups show the Three Wise Men on their way with gifts to the newborn Lord. In a few of these, servants bear the presents, but as a usual thing the venerable men perform themselves the task. Little stables with decorated stalls and a manger, Nino Santos of wax, or porcelain, or clay, are ready near by to be bought and carried in the posada procession and laid in the Cu-

Travels of Holy Family.

It would be hard to mention anything appropriate or suggestive of the travels or life of the Holy Family not to be found in the stalls devoted to their sale. Farm animals and fowls, milkmaids and stable-boys, shepherds and their flocks, stars and angels, are in pretty confusion, and the careful buyers know how to arrange them at home so that when guests arrive the Biblical scene has been cleverly interpreted and all is ready for the coming of the central figure-the Nino Santo-to be laid in the

The procession is always headed by one who carries the babe-frequently a little girl. Sometimes little children dressed as angels flit about, but this part of the posada is gradually vanishing. At last the inn door is reached.

Joyous Welcome Given.

To the petitions of the travellers for admittance a denial is chanted from within, until after repeated appeals, it is told who it is pleading for a refugethen the door is flung open, a joyou welcome is given, all burst into a hymn of gladness. The babe is taker and laid in its cuna, or cradle. In older times this was always done by a priest Now the evening gayetles begin.

The curious pinatas which have been displayed for sale in the stalls represent figures of human beings and animals, flowers, and musical instruments beautiful and grotesque, but all bearing in their interior, though deftly hidden by coverings of tissue-paper, a pinata or jar of pottery to be filled with good ies and toys. During the evening one or several are suspended and turns taken by the young folk and children, blind-

There was no appreciable let-up in the furfous activity in the stock market to-day or in the exceedingly broad and varied trading. A guick market was offered for almost any volume of stocks and very notable strength continued at various points in the list, but the burden of the profit taking sales proved rather heavier than for some time past and made more general inroads upon prices. The market fairly turned reactionary throughout at one time, under the influence of some rather violent breaks in special stocks. Tin plate was the most effective of these when it suddenly slumped $3½ after a show of early strength. A drop of fourteen points in New York Air Brake was impressive in its way, but had little effect on the market. The reactionary tendency of the junior Vanderbilts developed that New York Air Brake was impressive in its way, but had little effect on the market. The reactionary tendency of the junior Vanderbilts developed that speculators had been taking rather too sanguine a view of possibility of readjustments of securities of this company's. Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis stocks fell back heavily, although some went up briskly in the morning. An effort was made to reclaim the bull position in the final hour by sudden advances in Northern Pacific, Sugar, Illinois Central, General Electric, the Chicago Terminal transfer stocks and the Wisconsin Central stocks. The advances in these above the low point ran from 2 to 6½ points. Prices did stiffen in sympathy, but the speculative enthusiasm was not fully renewed and the market closed very feverish and unsettled with a point or more lost of some of these sudden gains. Even the Erie stocks, which have been the real backbone for some days, came to a pause to-days and the first preferred, after rising 2½, reacted 1½, with a final fractional raily.
